

Gran Sangre de Toro

Character comes from the earth

Description

The best Garnacha, Cariñena and Syrah grapes that produce Gran Sangre de Toro are grown in a region famous since the times of the Roman Emperor Augustus for producing the finest Mediterranean wines.

Origin

Towards the end of the 1960s, Miguel Torres Carbó decided to produce a wine with a well defined identity and a character of its own. Straight away we started experimenting with Garnacha Tinta (60%) and its usual partner, Cariñena (25%). The years passed and eventually we also added Syrah (15%). Thus, ennobled by ageing in oak, this wine was born with its intense colour and its rich and fruity aroma.
